...Or you need a profit generating web site creating from scratch...

...Then this is the most exciting web site you'll ever visit.

My name is Rob Collyer. I'm known as the “Go-To” guy within the search engine optimisation (SEO) industry. For the last few years I've been the hidden brains for web site designers and developers to consult when they needed their web sites optimised for search engines.

Over 1500 web site developers consult me at the specialist bulletin board I started on a regular basis for my latest industry insights. So they can apply that specialised knowledge to their current projects. I don't state any of the above to brag, purely to demonstrate that when it comes to search engine optimisation there's nobody who knows more than me.

“Over the past five years, Rob Collyer and I have been able to work with each other on a regular basis. As an expert in Active Server Pages (ASP) and Search Engine Optimization (SEO) specialist, Rob has been my ‘go-to’ guy. On one such occasion I was in need of Rob's expertise to help close a deal with a client, knowing I needed help, I flew Rob to my office in California, USA. Thanks to Rob's vast knowledge and great customer skills we sealed the deal.
