Dear Friend

It’s frustrating when your business networking isn’t paying off with new business leads.

You’ve paid the fees. You’ve joined the business clubs – BNI, BRE or whatever initials they go under.

You get up at the crack of dawn. Force down a gallon of coffee before 8am trying to wake up. Greet your fellow networking colleagues like long lost buddies. Eat another weekly fry up you normally wouldn’t touch in a month of Sundays.

And yet...despite your efforts...at the end of the breakfast...another blank week. No hot leads. No referral business.

Or you’re religiously attending networking lunches. Talking to anyone and everyone. Exchanging business cards to join the mountain of cards you’ve got on your desk. Trying not to look too desperate for business.

And YET...

...You’re not picking up a continual stream of new business you thought you would.

Your fellow networkers AREN'T getting it. They don’t seem to putting word about what you do to their business contacts.

It’s crazy. It shouldn’t be like this.

How come these networking 'buddies' aren't recommending your services to everyone they know and meet?

After all that's the big idea. Helping one another in business.
